

Requiring signed written consent for faxes to prospective Real Estate clients and vendors is inefficient for clients, vendors and agents trying to conduct a professional business and provide free flow of required information. This information is a necessary part of the buying/selling process for almost every customer. Please rescind this rule and write a more specific one that addresses the issue you are trying to correct, which I assume must relate to spam faxing. Respectfully yours, Jan Tucker